Squaremetry is a fast-paced and challenging puzzle game where you need to carefully explore a wide range of seemingly random objects, in order to make them fit together in the correct way in order to solve a riddle and save the day! The game starts with a poor scientist who used to work for a top-secret space program, and due to some tragic events happened, he had to relocate to planet Earth, where he gets stuck in a city, and spends the next time stumbling around to get to where he needs to be. The land of Earth is a lot different than his home, in the whole world there is a prophecy that says a man of science will rule the planet in the future, and there are a lot of companies that are trying to claim the throne for themselves. The captain of a small space cruiser is dropped off in the middle of the city, and he has to solve a riddle to get to the other end of the city, where he can do his mission. The clues to the riddle are in the environment around him, but it seems like a pretty straightforward journey to the end. He goes from town to town, and starts to question some of the people around. Some have bad intentions, and some are just trying to help him get to his final destination. As the scientist, you have two modes of operation. One is that you are going to do the puzzles yourself. You can look and explore at all of the objects around you to find the solution for each puzzle. Or you can use the script that was designed for you. It is pretty straightforward to understand. Everything is in symbols, and it would be helpful to have a good look at the definition and usage for each symbol. The script lets you tell the game which riddle to solve first. There are three types of puzzles, and every type has 4 levels. To finish a puzzle, you need to successfully solve 3 puzzles. The puzzles will become more and more complex, and the puzzles will get harder with each higher level. There are hidden clues in the environment around you, and there are more objects that are scattered around the map. It is up to you to choose where you go and what you look at, there is no preset route to the end. There is the script with the puzzle types, that let you choose the level. In the first level you get two puzzles. In the 2nd level you get 4 puzzles, and so on...
