This stipulation discloses the difficulty of insertion of a paper document into a device (information processing terminal) which permits insertion of a paper document thereinto. This difficulty can be more actual in the case of a small-sized information processing terminal which is loaded with a small memory but permits insertion of a paper document because the available memory is insufficient in capacity to store an image of the paper document to be inserted therein. Furthermore, this stipulation discloses the use of an interface which is manipulated by a pen in addition to a keyboard. However, according to this stipulation, the design and the handling of a device is restricted, and, 6d1f23a050
